Courses in English
Course Description

Department	13 General and Interdisciplinary Studies
Course title	Electoral Studies: Elections in the USA 2024 (ES)
Course number
Hours per week (SWS)	2
Number of ECTS credits	2
Course objective	Basic knowlegde on electoral research: electoral systems, electoral behaviour, political communication, campaign dynamics and election coverage.
Prerequisites	Proficiency in English (minimum B2 level)
Recommended reading	Russell J. Dalton (2018): Citizen Politics, London: Sage (7th edition). Andrew Denison et al. (2021): Länderbericht USA, Bonn: bpb. Ulrike Klinger et al. (2024): Platforms, Power, and Politics, Cambridge: polity. Pippa Norris and Ronald Inglehart (2019): Cultural Backlash, Cambridge: Cambridge UP.
Teaching methods	Presentations, Discussions, Election Night Event
Assessment methods
Language of instruction	English
Name of lecturer	Prof. Dr. Andreas Wüst
Email	wuest.andreas@hm.edu
Link
Course content	On November 5, 2024, several elections are going to be held in the United States of America. Especially the election of the US President has already attraced attention for months if not for years. However, the whole House of Reepresentatives is also going to be elected, and one third of the US Senators. In this course, students do not only learn basics about elections and electoral research, but also observe the final phase of the campaign, the election night, and the initial post-election coverage. In addition to following the "horse race", attention will be drawn to similarities and differences between parliamentary and presidential political systems as well as to the political culture, so students also learn about the impact different political systems and contexts do have on elections.
Remarks	The seminar runs until mid-November only (4 hours weekly). We will join the 4th Presidential Election Night event at the University of Bamberg on Nov. 5, 2024. Travels and (potentially) accomodation needs to be planned and financed individually.